Florida Attorney General's Office News Release

Attorney General James Uthmeier Charges Eight Members of International Child Pornography Ring

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Today, Attorney General James Uthmeier announced charges for eight members of an international child pornography ring. Through a proactive investigation by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, authorities uncovered advertisements on social media selling large amounts of child sexual abuse material (CSAM). The investigation revealed a group led by Mehmet Berk Bozuyuk, a resident of Turkey, that transferred massive amounts of CSAM to buyers, including eight men in the U.S.

“The arrests of these predators are just the beginning. Every image of child abuse leaves a lasting scar on an innocent life, and we will aggressively prosecute these heinous crimes,” said Attorney General James Uthmeier. “It’s disgusting that child sexual abuse material is advertised in plain view on apps such as TikTok, and we will continue fighting to get these major social media companies to do their part in shutting down the spread of this material. I’m grateful for our FDLE partners who uncovered this deviant network and highlighted their sickening actions. Our Statewide Prosecutors will ensure these disgusting criminals face justice.”

“This case is a testament to the power of law enforcement teamwork and the strength of interagency collaboration,” said FDLE Commissioner Mark Glass. “To the criminals believing they can hide among the shadows of the internet—know this: FDLE is always watching, we are always working, and we will always find you.”

Authorities discovered the global operation through an undercover proactive review of websites known to law enforcement that are used by individuals for the distribution of child pornography. Investigators responded to an ad listing more than 6 terabytes of material for $100 and received more than 1 million videos and pictures, which were determined to be CSAM. Authorities subsequently seized the domain of the website so that any further web traffic would be redirected to FDLE to hinder the further distribution of child sexual abuse material.

Investigators also isolated individuals who took part in the operation to profit from the sale of CSAM. At least four individuals served as money mules, accepting money from buyers in Florida, then pocketing a percentage of the total and sending the remainder to Bozuyuk, the ringleader in Turkey. Bozuyuk then filtered the money by purchasing access to unsuspecting victims’ financial accounts through the dark web before taking possession.

Authorities arrested eight individuals in the U.S. for participating in the scheme or buying CSAM—seven of which reside in Florida. Attorney General Uthmeier’s OSP charged the following individuals:

- Krunal Kumar Nareshbhai Modi of New Jersey is charged with one count each of racketeer influenced and corrupt organizations (RICO), conspiracy to commit RICO, and money laundering;
- Frankie Piniero, Jr. of Groveland, Florida is charged with one count each of conspiracy to commit RICO, purchase of child pornography, use of a two-way communication device to commit a felony;
