Attorney General Moody's Week In Review - April 28, 2023

This week, we released Scams at a Glance: Sink or Swim to help Floridians avoid pool-contractor scams. With summer approaching, many Floridians may try to beat the heat with a new pool.

However, inground pools are expensive home-improvement projects, and if a consumer is not careful, thousands of dollars could be lost to a deceptive or inept pool contractor.

Scams at a Glance: Sink or Swim gives consumers the tools to know how to spot these schemes. Our new resource contains information about common pool-related scams and fraud, including consumer protection tips such as:

- Verify a contractor's license with the Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation;
- Get multiple estimates, and be cautious of required, large upfront payments;
- Ask to see a contractor's proof of insurance; and
- Research a company and contractor thoroughly before signing an agreement.

Floridians can file a complaint at DBPR about a bad pool contractor at MyFloridaLicense.com. Report contractor fraud directly to local law enforcement.

Civil complaints can be reported to my office by visiting MyFloridaLegal.com.

By knowing how to spot and report pool-contractor schemes, you can protect your money, and help us build a Stronger, Safer Florida.

AG Moody's Statewide Prosecutors Secure 61-Year Prison Sentence for Man Convicted of Child Exploitation and Bestiality

Attorney General Ashley Moody's Office of Statewide Prosecution secured a 61-year prison sentence for a man convicted on multiple counts of child exploitation, bestiality and sexual battery. A Florida Department of Law Enforcement investigation found Shane Logan Keith used peer-to-peer software to engage in child exploitation. Recovered evidence showed at least 16,000 videos of children as young as only months-old being forced to engage in sexual conduct including bestiality, bondage and sexual battery. The National Center for Missing & Exploited Children identified many of these children.

Attorney General Ashley Moody said, "This case is extremely disturbing. As a mother, I am horrified by these terrible crimes—some involving children as young as just a few months old. The defendant also sexually abused animals. I am grateful to our Statewide Prosecutors for ensuring he will remain behind bars for decades."

Project Protect provides doorbell cameras to victims of domestic violence, human trafficking, stalking, and sexual violence.

Attorney General Ashley Moody, law enforcement officials and county Clerks of Court launched a new program in Florida to help human trafficking and domestic violence survivors feel more secure at home. Project Protect provides doorbell cameras to survivors of domestic violence, human trafficking, stalking and sexual violence free of charge. When survivors are seeking protective injunctions against abusers at Clerks of Court offices, trained staff in Hillsborough and Martin counties will now provide information about how to receive the doorbell cameras.

Attorney General Ashley Moody said, “Survivors of horrific crimes such as human trafficking and domestic violence, face traumatic experiences and may be extra wary of strangers and fearful of their abusers coming back to revictimize them.
